

Logistics Leader for Nonprofit

Blue Star Recyclers (www.bluestarrecyclers.org) is an award-winning nonprofit social enterprise that recycles electronics to create jobs for people with autism and other disabilities. We are currently seeking a person with multiple talents. The position starts part-time, 24-32 hours per week, but can quickly become full time with benefits depending on experience and workload.

This position requires the talents of offering high caliber customer service, positive personality, willingness to help wherever needed, and team collaboration with other employees including adults with disabilities. Primary responsibilities are driving a large box truck to various clients across northern Colorado, physically loading electronic waste, accurately sorting and weighing different categories of electronics. The job is physical but you will also be the “face” of Blue Star with our key accounts and will guide adults with disabilities.

This job is labor intensive and all applicants must be able to carry up to 75 lbs. consistently throughout the day. Applicants are also subject to an initial drug screening and must be able to pass a background check to achieve security clearance to government facilities. The position starts at $15-18 per hour depending on experience.

This is a great opportunity for college students who want part-time work and also want to make a significant difference in their community with environmental and social impact.
